"YOU UP THERE WITH THAT TV CAMERA...TURN THAT THING OFF AND BRING IT BACK DOWN HERE. YOU PEOPLE ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR MANY OF THESE INCIDENTS....."
"YOU'VE HAD YOUR CHANCE NOW SHUT UP"

(HUBERT H. HUMPHREY
SEATTLE SEPT 28)

A well-indoctrinated, highly organized, militant group, 5000 strong, disrupted a speech by the Vice President of the United States at the Ice Arena last Saturday. The crowd resurrected the frightening spectre of Berlin 1938. Entertainers and comedians warmed the crowd up to fever pitch, spotlights, banners (in the good old red white and blue, of course), and monstrous photographs of the Vice President set the stage for the following spectacle, local politicians made obediently dull introductory remarks so as not to overshadow the Speaker, as the Speaker entered the the Arena a cry went up, 5000 voices strained together, 5000 hearts beat in unison as the Speaker took the podium.

At this point, those few who chose not to agree with the Vice President, did an unthinkable thing; not only did they attempt to communicate with him but they tried to "arrest (him) on charges of crimes against humanity." "Traitors", the crowd yelled in reply. This incident threatened to scar an otherwise ecstatic collective ritual. The dissenters were forceably removed from the Arena. No arrests were made and little violence was visible, although many loyal party members were ready to tear the small group limb from limb. However, the Speaker wisely restrained the angry crowd while his private police force aided by local Law Enforcement Officers quickly and efficiently threw the noisy protesters down the stairs.

The protest group, largely members of the Peace and Freedom Party, has followed the Speaker from state to state in their private Lear Jet; oddly, the group does not seem to be able to afford cab fare for a large number of them were seen walking to the Olympic hotel after their eviction from the rally. Such is the inherent paradox of the schizophrenic fascist-communist youth group from Portland.

WANTED: H³

Hubert Humphrey was placed under citizen's arrest in Seattle Saturday night on the charge of crimes against humanity. Over a hundred Peace and Freedom and Draft Resistance people gathered in the City Arena to give the Veep an appropriate welcome to his own rally. For two hours there was a lively interchange between the gallery and the triple H stooges. Trying to buy us off, Bill Dana - self-styled "Jungarian Hew" - offered equal time to any spokesman we would choose. PFP Veep candidate Cal Winslow let Dana know that we intended to go on disrupting just as long as the killing continued in Vietnam. But, of course, the killing didn't stop.

The fugitive himself showed up sometime after nine, the Arena having been stirred to a fever pitch of boredom. The Eichmann of Joy had hardly begun to speak when a voice from the gallery interrupted over a previously concealed bullhorn that had entered in pieces in various purses and as a pregnancy. Unsuspecting what was to follow, Humphrey invited this voice to do its bit and then shut up.

Thereupon, the voice charged Humphrey with crimes against humanity, namely complicity in the death of tens of thousands of Americans and hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese. Humphrey then was warned that he had best surrender himself quietly to stand trial before the people of the world at the United Nations. We have not come to talk with you, but to arrest you - was the gist of it.

This speech concluded, HHH quickly found that he was not going to be able to deliver his lies in peace. Hoots of laughter greeted his charge that we were a highly organized and disciplined band of hecklers, in fact, the same who have followed him across the country. Yes sir, we run pretty fast keeping up with that jet! Humphrey finally became so rattled that he began railing against the newsmen for "provoking" us. Next, the SS boys launched after the gallery in the est Chicago style. Cal and Barbara Winslow were shoved headfirst down the stairs, but it takes more than stairs to break a PFP bone. A New York Times reporter later told Barbara that this was the first time in this campaign that Humphrey had to clear out an entire section of an auditorium.

Strangely, even though the place was crawling with more pigs than the state fair, Humphrey escaped. Anyone supplying information leading to the arrest and conviction of this hardened criminal-- or any of his gunmen-- will receive a large reward: freedom.

A Well Organized Plot

"Strongly believe this demonstration should be quashed if possible because of possible severe impact on military discipline throughout the services. . . . In the absence of a regulation or order specifically prohibiting such activity believe any criminal prosecution would be tenuous to say the least, particularly in view of the political climate of the day. . . . I realize this would result in a discharge under honorable conditions, but the disposition of Smith is relatively unimportant as compared to the highly undesirable impact on military discipline if Armed Services personnel are permitted to demonstrate in uniform against National Defense policies with impunity."

These quotes are from a telegram sent August 28th by General McConnell to General Estes of Headquarters, USAF Communications Center. Subject: Second Lieutenant Hugh F. Smith, key organizer of an October 12th anti-war march to be led by GIs and veterans in San Francisco. The message was intercepted at a base near Washington by two soldiers who wish to remain anonymous for obvious reasons. The full text ran as follows:

"I am informed that facts and circumstances of this matter have been discussed with you by General Manass and Cappucci and that there is secretarial interest. (i.e., the Secretary of Defense is interested). Smith is organizing a "Peace in Vietnam" demonstration for men in uniform to take place in San Francisco. He applied for and received permit for a demonstration to be held on 21 September. Subsequently, permit changed to 12 October. Strongly believe this demonstration should be quashed if possible because of possible severe impact on military discipline throughout the services. There is no AFR (Air Force Regulation) specifically proscribing this type of activity. AFR 35-78 is pointed solely to civil rights demonstrations. Since there are national policy considerations in such an order it should emanate from DOD or at least Air Force level. I recommend this be done at once so that Smith will realize that if he proceeds he subjects himself with certainty to criminal punitive action. In the absence of a regulation or order specifically prohibiting such activity believe any criminal prosecution would be tenuous to say the least, particularly in view of the political climate of the day. If the foregoing is unattainable I reluctantly recommend that we be given authority to proceed with dispatch with the AFR 36-3 action which has been recommended by the Commander 349th MAW and concurred in by General Sherrill, Commander 22 AF. I realize this would result in a discharge under honorable conditions, but the disposition of Smith is relatively unimportant as compared to the highly undesirable impact on military discipline if Armed Forces personnel are permitted to demonstrate in uniform against National Defense policies with impunity."

The Pentagon must have changed its strategy since the telegram was sent, because Lt. Smith and his two co-workers Airmen John Bright and Mike Locks have faced not criminal charges or discharges but transfers. Smith is still on orders for Taiwan which would put him outside the Bay Area before the march is held, while Bright and Locks were given Temporary Duty Assignments to Utah for 45 days. After a press conference and some legal threats, the Utah assignments were rescinded. Meanwhile Smith's lawyer is filing a suit against the Air Force for using a duty assignment to prevent legal expression of dissenting political views. A preliminary hearing was held last Thursday and the case will be continued in Federal court this Thursday.

March planners say that the march would go on even if the Air Force brass succeeded in shanghaiing the present leadership.

Headquarters of the organization, GIs and Vets for Peace, is at 546 Fillmore Street (Sacred Heart Church). Phone 552-2939, send mail to PO Box 31268, San Francisco 94131.

MEXICO CITY (LNS) - Repression of the student movement in Mexico continues, with any groups of more than three students subject to immediate arrest.

Several youths have been killed. When General Barragan, chief of the Army, was asked by reporters to explain the shootings, he said: "One of my men was insulted by a student. My men are in no position, at this point, to take that kind of treatment."

Although street fighting still continues, the repression reached its most dramatic moment September 18, when the Army invaded the National University with 90 tanks and 10,000 men to rout about 500 students who had held the campus for nearly two months.

The government is now taking a hard line, in short, "Let nothing stand in the way of the Olympics." The games are scheduled to open in early October.

There has been dramatic evidence of support for the student movement from broad sectors of the population. On September 15, when the president gave the traditional cry, or "grite" (Padre Hidalgo's "Viva Mexico," repeated on September 15 every year since 1810), he was met with hoos and catcalls. All over the city, the people, the "pueblo" gave their own "grite." For the first time, large segments of the population refused to let a rotten and incapable president represent them.

Thousands of students are in jail, thousands are in hiding, and they continue to suffer attacks from the government and from reactionary forces.

The activities of the right-wing terrorist group, MURO, have consisted of random shootings at local high schools and colleges and at least one kidnapping.

Reported missing is Beberto Castillo, Representative of the Coalition of Teachers. Ten days ago he had been taken from his home into surrounding hills, beaten severely and left there. He returned to the university with the aid of local peasants and was treated by medical students. He is at present unable to be reached and is considered once again the victim of the MURO.

The students also report the killing of two riot policemen at the hands of persons unconnected with the strike. The New York Times confirms information from the students that one riot policeman was killed by an Army Lieutenant. Another policeman is said to have been shot by a traffic patrolman while they were participating in a raid upon a building. They further report that among police seriously hurt is one whose own gun exploded in his face.

A special session of the Academic Senate has been called for next Thursday in the face of what is now being seen as a major threat to the future of Free Speech at Berkeley.

University President Charles Hitch called for the meeting of faculty body as students began to register for the controversial Social Analysis 139X course which will be taught in part by Eldridge Cleaver. Registration for it and other student initiated courses sponsored by the Committee for Participant Education continues today.

Despite the official ruling of the Regents which specifically forbids Cleaver and other "non-academics" from lecturing more than once to any course, the CPE has announced that Cleaver will deliver ten lectures to the Dehumanization-Regeneration course as originally planned. The Regents have also called for an investigation into the nature of all such experimental courses.

Students may be attending the first lecture of the Cleaver course early next week. If the course begins as scheduled, Cleaver could deliver his second lecture prior to the Senate meeting on Thursday when the question of academic freedom and the 139X course in particular, will presumably be discussed.

FISH-IN

Twenty people are still living at Frank's landing on the Nisqually River keeping the fires burning and making preparations for the Massive Fish-In of October 11-13. In the city, speakers have attended an endless number of meetings (Kiwans, Rotary, Methodist, Unitarian) trying to drum up support and funds for the coming arrests. Suzette Bridges has been in Denver talking with Corky Gonzales, the "Geuvera of the Rockies" in Denver. Gonzales plans to send a busload plus several cars full of his people to the October 11-13 Fish-In. Hank Adams has been in Omaha at the National Tribal Convention and has gathered considerable support for coming confrontation. Meanwhile, back in Seattle, toy Indians appeared at the Humphrey Rally in Headdress and business suits to hear Democratic politicians mouth empty phrases and threaten those who sought redress outside the established channels of law.

Tuesday, October 15, 1968; Speakers on the topic of 'Exploitation and Resistance'.

Wednesday, October 16, 1968; Workshops with speakers of the previous day participating.

SPEAKERS WILL INCLUDE:

- HON. TRAN VAN DINH: Ex ambassador from South Vietnam to the United States. Mr. Dinh was active in the anti Japanese underground movement and fought against the French in the first Vietnamese Independence.
- TOD GITLIN: Past national president of Students for a Democratic Society. Mr. Gitlin recently returned from a tour of Cuba is presently a radical writer for the San Francisco Express Times.
- ELDRIDGE CLEAVER: Minister of Information of the Black Panther Party Oakland. Peace and Freedom Party candidate for President and author of SOUL ON ICE. A Representative of the Seattle Black Panther Party. The Seattle Black Panthers are running the first all Black slate of local candidates.
- DAVID HARRIS: Past Stanford Student Body President, convicted for refusing induction into the Army and co organizer of "The Resistance".
- DAVID WELSCH: Economic analyst and staff writer for RAMPARTS magazine.
- PETER SCHNALL: Co organizer of the "Committee for Human Rights", a radical grouping of doctors and medical students.
- PROF. HILLARY PUTNAM: Harvard University Professor of Political Science ... A member of the "Oakland Seven", who is currently under indictment on charges of conspiracy for actions in last October's attempt to close the Oakland Induction Center during "Stop the Draft Week".

1. "STUDENTS AND THE DRAFT": Future draft calls will primarily affect college seniors and graduates. Why? What will we do? This will not be a counseling session. The purpose of this workshop is to begin planning for collective defense now.
2. "THE STATE UNIVERSITY IN SOCIETY": What is its role? What purpose does it serve? How can it be altered?
3. "BLACK EXPLOITATION AND LIBERATION": There will be workshops; one for Blacks and Whites and another for Blacks only. These workshops will be conducted by the Black Panther Party.
4. "WHAT AFTER CHICAGO?": This will be an activist oriented workshop, to decide what we should do during the November elections, the Presidential inauguration and in the immediate future.
5. "WOMEN IN SOCIETY": Identity, Sex, and Status SDS and the Women's Liberation Committee of the Peace and Freedom Party.
6. "HIGH SCHOOL ORGANIZING": Discussion of reform and rebellion in the high school. Organizing experiences in local high schools will be presented and analyzed.

GEORGIA STRAIGHT: AGAIN

The Long Harrassed GEORGIA STRAIGHT vancouver's underground paper has once again incurred Mayor Campbell's wrath. Already under indictment for obscenity and libel charges; the Straight was last tues. confronted with Campbell's second attempt to take their license away. The City Council, however, voted 7 to 3 to say no to the Mayor. This is less good will than good politics. The indictments yet undecided in the courts; the Council could not find the Straight guilty or be held in contempt.

CAVEAT EMPITOR

There are various sanctions designed to punish those who sell HELIX. Last year one dealer after selling an issue to a passing car was eventually run down (by a cop) and mazed, then to spend a few days in Jail for obstructing traffic. In Yakima, — though it is clearly by all very specific 1st amendment precedents unconstitutional— the paper has never been freely sold on the streets because in all instances the sellers have been arrested for not holding a peddlers license. (The cost of the license — which is itself illegal— is such that it's hardly worth it.) Now on the U.W. campus some campus police are telling sellers that it is illegal to peddle the paper there. This action again is itself clearly, most certainly and exactly illegal. The press cannot be obstructed in any of its legal actions which includes circulating itself. That is even on private property which is used publicly, 1st amendment rights cannot be withdrawn. Especially, then on public property such as the University are those rights assured. But now something we would have never expected someone has been busted for buying a HELIX. Here is the story.

THE STORY

It involves the fortuitous meeting of Greg Philibert and Jean Teacey. Jean—who counts for two being pregnant now six months—was selling that paper in front of the parking lot across from the Pizza Haven on University Way. Greg, a part-time instructor at Seattle Community College and a draftsman at Boeing, had an hour before being picked up from work by his wife, had left her off at home and had then proceeded to the district to buy some rubber cement. Pulling into the lot he parked next to a squad car in which he noticed two youths being held and questioned in the back seat. Since this is not at all untoward he proceeded to reach into his pocket for the 35 cents that landlord requires for the safety of one's car. Having only some bills and one loose quarter he needed to make some change. Then he spotted Jean who had lots of change. Buying a Helix and so breaking the dollar Greg proceeded to the coin slot. There he was met by officers Pancky and Jankousky and what follows.

One of the officers asked "What did you buy?" Greg answered predictably, "I just bought a Helix." The cop then retorted, "No, we know you bought dope...what have you got in your pocket?" Again, "nothing except my change." And on, "let me see your identification!" Greg proceeded to show them his ID while he examined his ACLU card which contained instructions on what to do if and when your are stopped by the police. He was instructed to come to the police car. The cops who apparently found nothing on the kids they had earlier held in the back seat now on the make. Both Greg and Jean were told to get into the backseat. Greg, following the instructions on the card, asked first if he was under arrest. When they would not answer he would not enter. The cops then asked to make a pat search. He submitted. Again he asked if he was under arrest. This time the answer was affirmative and they were both handcuffed with their hands behind their back and then shoved into the back seat. At Wallingford they were separated, stripped and then again thoroughly searched. When nothing was found one of the officers had the curious idea to check the back seat of the squad car to "check if anything had been stashed." He came back with a paper bag full of stems and seeds. By this time Greg was ready for anything. When the cop confronted him with the bag Greg "looked him straight in the eye and didn't flinch," as if to tell him something about his integrity. After that Greg didn't say a word. Both were booked on Suspicion of Narcotics and taken to the city jail. There they spent the weekend along with several others who were there on various trumps. (Including one Dave Doto who was busted for carrying 6 saccarin tablets.)

UNHAPPY

"You can't imagine how pissed I was getting busted for buying a Helix...going to buy rubber cement, buying a Helix and then winding up for the weekend in that crab infested hole." On Monday, ACLU attorney Chris Young visited the city jail, pointed out the more blatant parts of the arrest's insanity, and quickly the charges were dropped.

This incident is being reported because it involved the paper directly. It is not exceptional. Busts similar to this one are a regularity in the district. In most cases the harassment runs its course and then the charges are dropped. It is now time for a few people — those quietly going about their pleasures and their tasks at home and away— to wise up and say something and then do something. The passive vessels that meander about the ave., don't seem interested in organizing their own resistance. But with a little help from some legal aid such as the ACLU and some political direction such as the Peace and Freedom Party might offer, something might be done...if the elections don't get in the way.

GRAPES

The California grape boycott continues, but this week there is no good news. Right now picketing is going on at eight Albertson's stores. Customers are asked to boycott these stores until grapes are taken off the shelves and not to buy grapes anywhere. This is in support of the farm workers in California who have been fighting for the last three years for the right to form a union and better working conditions. Viva La Huelga. DON'T EAT GRAPES.

WARHOL

Andy Warhol is alive and well in New York. Asked the question: "Have you rethought your life style since the shooting?" Warhol answered, "I've been thinking about it. I'm trying to decide whether I should pretend to be real or to fake it. I had always thought everyone was kidding. But now I know they're not...I'm not sure if I should pretend things are real or fake it that they're fake, you see. To pretend something's real, I'd have to fake it. Then people would think I'm doing it real."

MAHA

The Maharishi lotused briefly for the press in the executive conference room at Kennedy International Airport. He is, summering in Squaw Valley with the Student's International Meditational Society.... "My term is over...I am like a jet plane when it lands.... The Beatles come and go...." He then boarded the plane for Brazil and the last leg of his 10 year world tour.

News as a warning. Now the Canadian Border patrol stationed in the block-house at the Blaine crossing have employed the services of a dog: German Shepherd. This dog was through pavlovian circumstances trained to be abnormally enticed by the smell of marijuana. If you are crossing the border and look high, inordinately happy, or outwardly "hip"— that is sporting some bodily or sartorial eruption that displays some imagination and willingness to give loosely—you will likely have your car inspected by two different species of inspectors. One human and another canine. To wit...

A friend—erupting a well-tailored bear's rather short hair Harvardian jeans, blue-shirt and wire spectacles—was shifted out in Blaine. It all cost him extradition for life from Canada (except through appeal to Ottawa) 100 dollars in fines...50 to the Canadian customs and 50 to the U.S. customs for the marijuana tax and 3 days in jail.

Incidentally, he was on his way to Maine via Canada driving his own staid VW sedan and carrying 300 dollars. That is, he was not a harmonica singing vagabond fool to which no industrial society will give permission.

JUDGE BEEK'S CONTEMPT

Mike Leavy, head of Seattle Draft Resistance and Peace and Freedom candidate for Lt. Governor, was found guilty on charges of refusing induction in a 50-minute trial by "peers." The sentencing will be handed down from the bench by Judge Beeks. The following are some comments taken from a leaflet published by Draft-Resistance....

1. LAW AND ORDER

U. S. judge William T. Beeks, Northern Division Western District Washington, is hardly reluctant. When the Federal judges for this area divvy up the cases, Beeks opts to handle the draft refusers. If it is an awesome burden to have to sentence young men to America's zoo system, Beeks bears it easily. He makes very clear in the courtroom that, morality notwithstanding, "the law must be obeyed."

We might find Beeks more credible were it not for his Army record. As a Lieut. Col. in the Adjutant General's division, Beeks was involved in the prosecution of German war criminals in the western division of Germany after the war. Remember, the war criminals were prosecuted because they obeyed civil law rather than moral law. Western Germany to Western Washington—a long trip, but government interests are served everywhere.

2. JUSTICE, WITH A VENGEANCE

A draft refuser in Beeks's courtroom can expect something less than impartiality. In his apparent desire to nail the draft resistance, he warps the legal system that we are exhorted to respect. Mike Leavy's trial made clear that Mike was convicted because he had made trouble for the system not because he had missed induction. Mike's defense that he was ill on the induction date never received a fair hearing. Nor, even though Mike's political-moral views were obviously central in the court decision, did his views ever get a fair hearing, during or after the trial. As for trial by one's peers, not one member of Mike's jury was under 30. In another instance of political bias, Beeks kept filling draft refuser Ernest Dudley's file with prejudicial material about his personal history in an attempt to prove him socially undesirable.

Beeks regularly imposes 5 year sentences. This is against a standard 2 years alternative serve in, say, the Bay Area and Portland. In San Francisco, even David Harris, an originator of the Resistance, got only 3 years in prison. Beeks told Russel Wills, one of the earliest draft card burners, that he would give him 10 days to enlist, or have the book thrown at him. Sound bad? There is a way out: Cooperate with the system and raise the white flag. Deactivate your stand and your wrists only get slapped, not broken.

3. JUSTICE BLUSHES

We might gather that Beeks is somewhat less than proud of his courtroom vendettas. A favorite tactic of his is to postpone sentencing on draft cases repeatedly until he can get a courtroom with only a few of the most determined supporters of the victim present. Ernest Dudley's sentencing was put off 3 times. Mike's already has been postponed once.

4. UNDER THE ROBES

We must remember that Beeks the man undergoes no special transformation in becoming Beeks the judge. He experiences the same willfulness, the same prejudice, AND the same political allegiance. Judges are made, not born. Beeks the judge came into being in 1961 during Kennedy's regime because of his work as top aid in Jackson's campaign. Yes, that is Jackson: Jackson the hawk, Boeing's senator. Should we be surprised, then, to find that the courts, far from being objective, usually are tools of the system?

5. CONTEMPT OF COURT

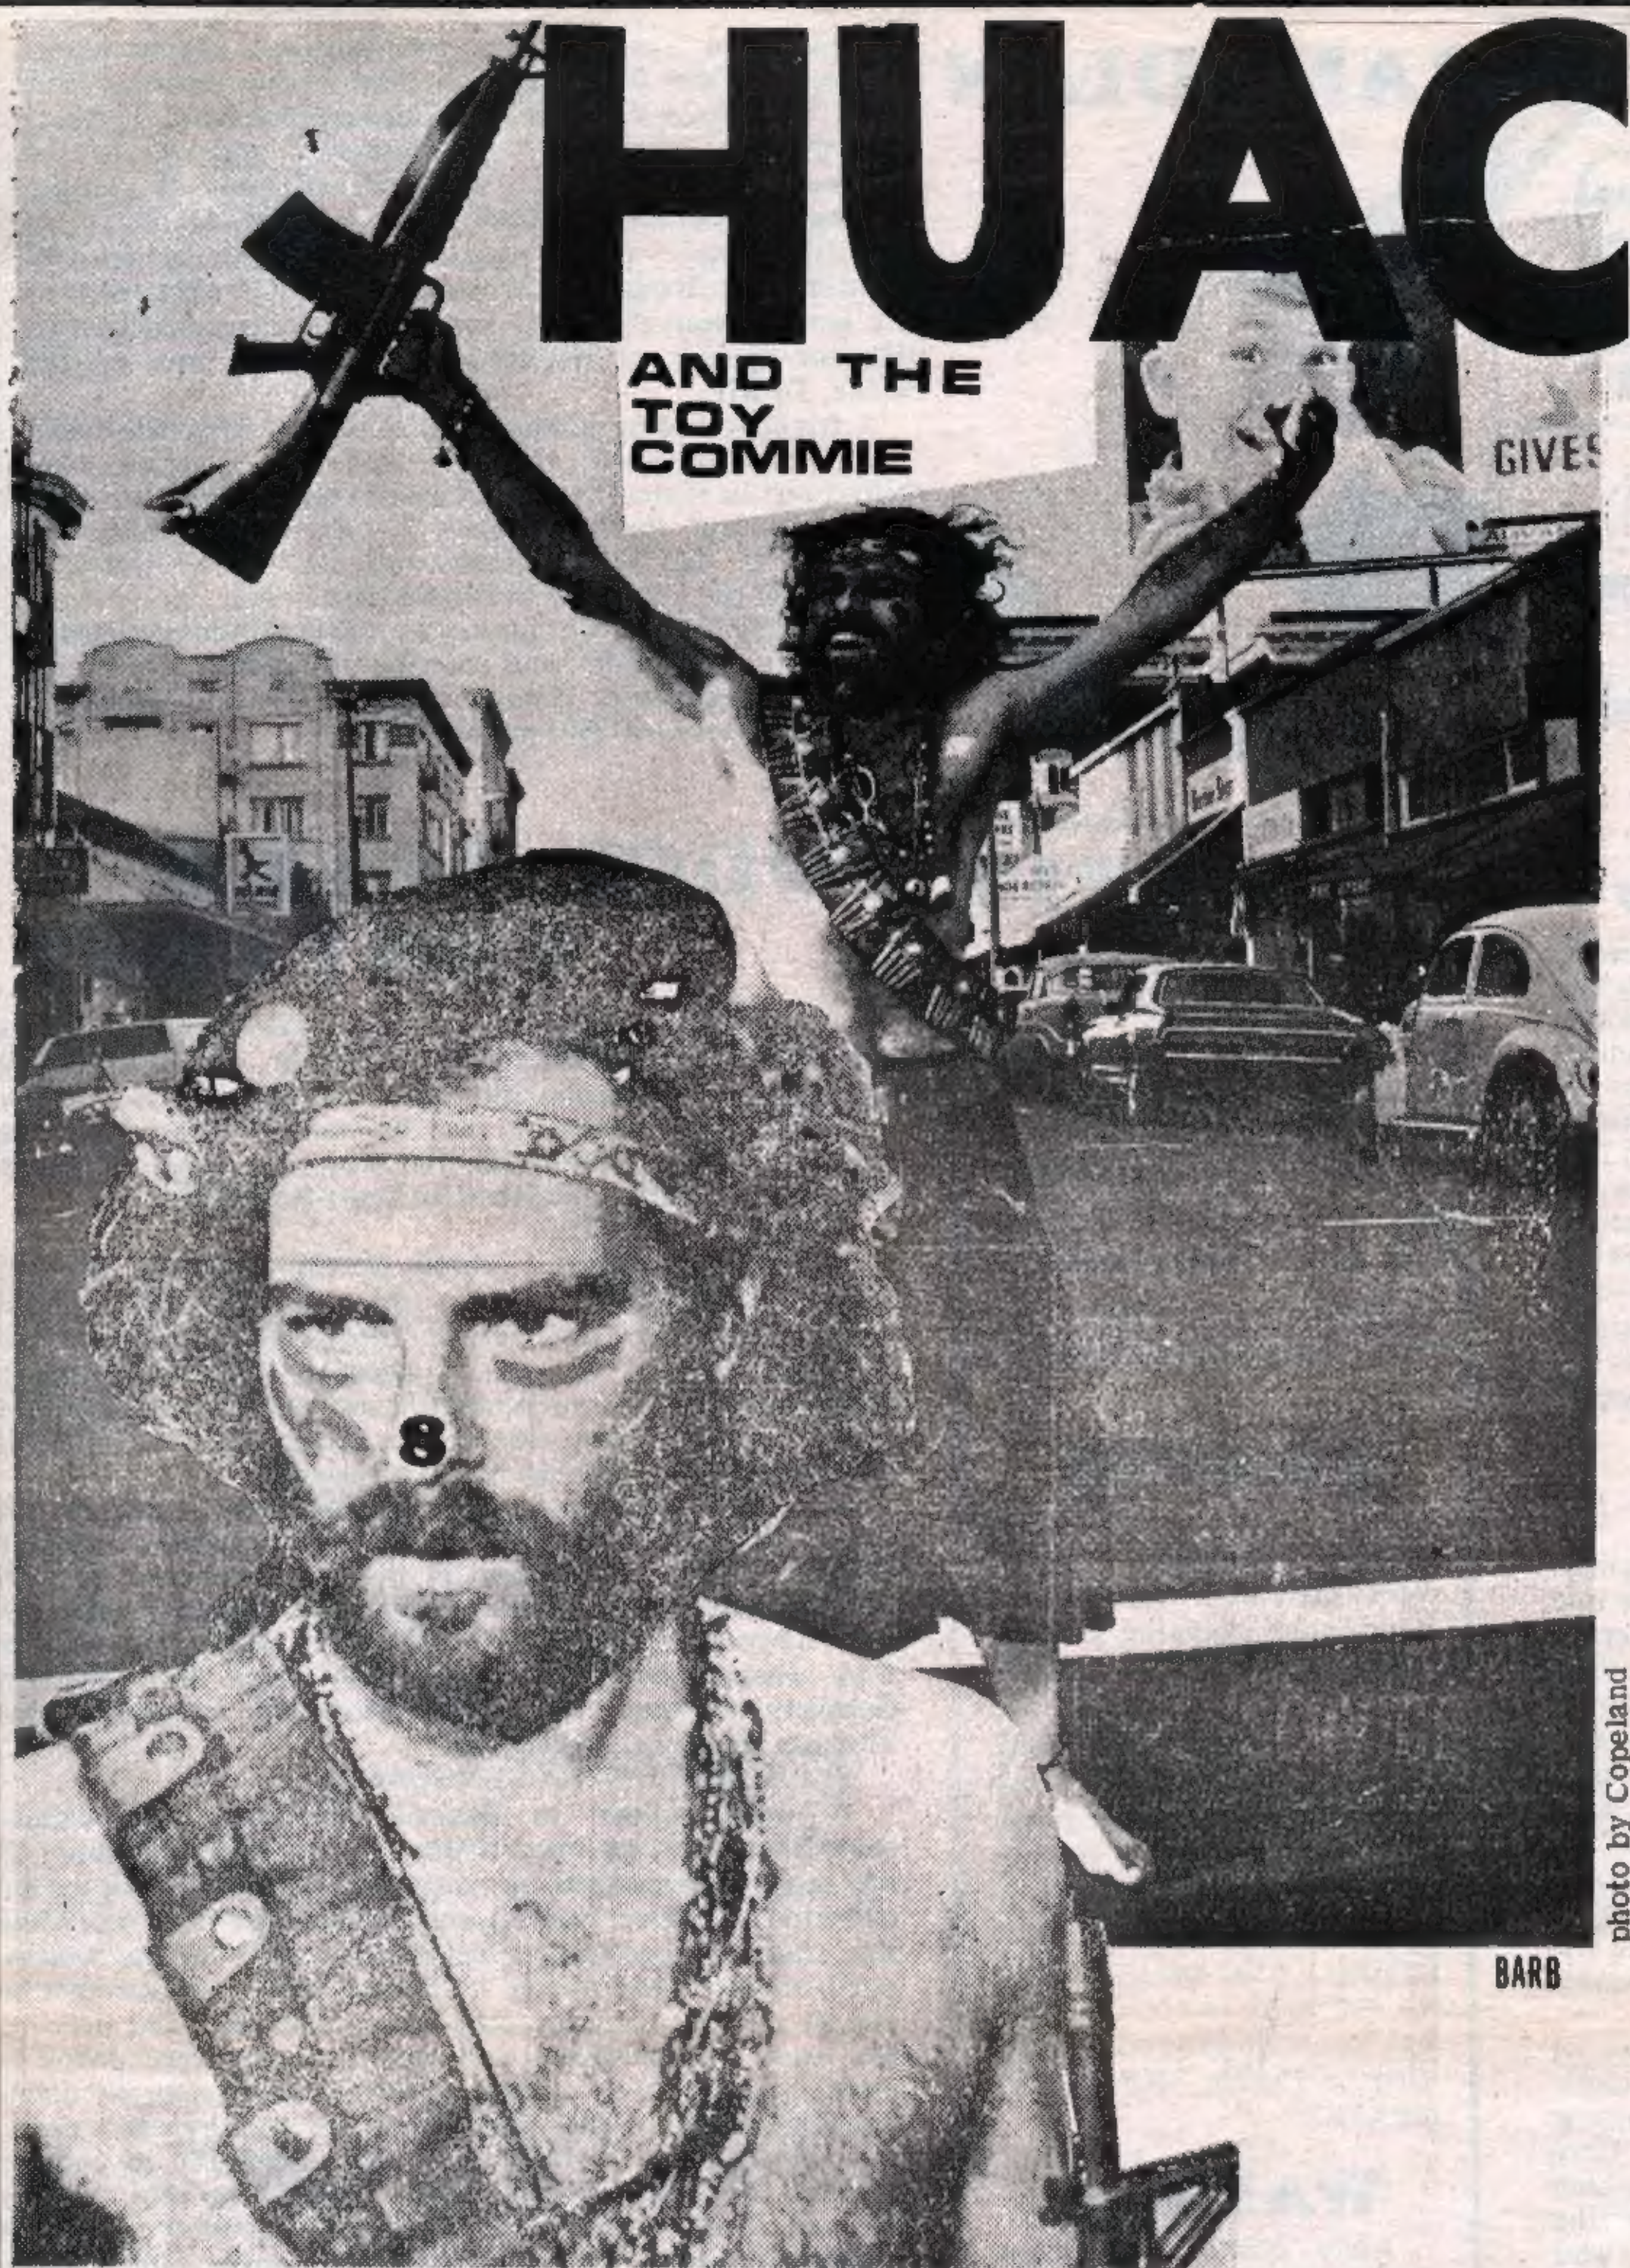

Yes

What Can You Do?

Come—with your friends. Come Friday, October 4 for the double feature sentencing of Mike Leavy and Bob Casey at 9 a.m. at the Federal Court Building. If Beeks balks, come again—with more friends.

HUAC ON THE MAKE: THE CIRCUS IS COMING TO TOWN

NEW YORK, (LNS) -- The HUAC circus is coming to town once more. And the fireworks should fly in Washington.

As of tomorrow, six people will have received subpoenas to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee on October 1. Those now set to appear before Amerika's anti-commie tribunal are Tom Hayden, Rennie Davis, Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin, Dave Dellinger and Robert Greenblatt.

HUAC is up-tight about Chicago.

The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee (NECLC), in a statement issued today, called the hearings an "attempt by the Johnson administration to use every mechanism at its disposal to legitimize the action of Mayor Daley and the Chicago police."

Jerry Rubin told LNS last night that he plans to use the hearings as a stage for a theatrical assault on HUAC and as a platform to call for disruptive actions on election day. Two years ago, in August 1966, Rubin and others then appearing before HUAC set a precedent for such activities by disrupting the hearings and refusing to take the tribunal seriously. Rubin appeared in the uniform of an American Revolutionary soldier.

A spokesman for the NECLC suggested that the six will probably use different approaches. Yippies Rubin and Hoffman, whose approach has always been the media-bathed politics of spectacle, will no doubt be the most lively.

Rubin said he plans to wear a uniform again, though he hasn't decided what it will be. "The best thing would be to come nude, and have a fuck-in right there in the chamber. Of course, that would probably mean a year in jail."

Since its formation in 1938, HUAC has been used mainly as a tool for Southern racists to rebait the civil rights movement.

The best exposition is a glance at some of the men who have spearheaded it:

Martin Dies, chairman from 1938 to 1945, was a racist from Texas. Under Dies, HUAC declared that "communism is a world-wide political organization advocating (among other things) absolute social and racial equality."

John Rankin, representative from Mississippi, was the man responsible for making HUAC a permanent body and was the power behind it for many years. He once called Walter Winchell a "communistic little kike."

John Wood, representative from Georgia, an ardent segregationist, was chairman in the 1940's and early 1950's. He once said of the Ku Klux Klan, "The Klan is an old American tradition, like illegal whisky selling."

Edwin Willis, representative from Louisiana, chairman since 1964, led the Southern opposition to the civil rights bill in Congress in 1964.

Joe Pool, recently deceased, representative from Texas, recently served as temporary chairman. He is remembered for many jewels of bigotry, including a vitriolic attack on the underground press.

Two northern chairmen included Rep. J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey, who served two years in jail for conspiracy to defraud the government, and Rep. Harold Velde of Illinois, who opposed mobile library service in rural areas because "the basis of communism and socialistic influence is education of the people."

Another HUAC chairman, Rep. Francis Walter, was involved in a project designed to show that black people are genetically inferior.

Despite the fact that the function of a Congressional committee is to produce legislation HUAC has been responsible for only one law during its 30 years of existence. Its single piece of legislation was the McCarran Act, which established a mechanism for labeling organizations subversive. HUAC has been used primarily as an instrument of intimidation, as an informal black-listing set-up, particularly during the McCarthy era in the 1950's. And, until two years ago, when Rubin and crew refused to deal with it as legitimate, it seemed to do its job. In the past, those subpoenaed were bullied, pleading the Fifth, with their heads bowed. But, after the confrontation in August 1966, many thought HUAC had breathed its last; it had been made a laughing stock.

BLACK PANTHER PAPER ISSUES

WARNING TO SO-CALLED "PAPER PANTHERS"

Black brothers stop vamping on the hippies. They are not your enemy. Your enemy, right now, is the white racist pigs who support this corrupt system. Your enemy is the Tom nigger who reports to his white slavemaster every day. Your enemy is the fat capitalist who exploits your people daily. Your enemy is the politician who uses pretty words to deceive you. Your enemy is the racist pigs who use Nazi-type tactics and force to intimidate black expressionism. Your enemy is not the hippies. Your blind reactionary acts endanger the BLACK PANTHER PARTY members and its revolutionary movements. WE HAVE NO QUARREL WITH THE HIPPIES. LEAVE THEM ALONE. Or—the BLACK PANTHER PARTY will deal with you!

TURN ON WITH WALLACE

GUERRILLA THEATER FOR WALLACE

(Editor's Note: The following story is written by an associate editor of the Kentucky Kernel and was first published by the College Press Service.)

LEXINGTON, KY. (LNS) -- George Wallace, a man who has contributed greatly to the political polarization of this country, visited the University of Kentucky recently and was greeted by a complete reversal of the polar stereotype. While eight straight-looking anti-Wallace pickets paraded and a number of neatly attired members of a campus action group passed out anti-Wallace leaflets, some 35 scroungy bearded, beaded, sandaled, long-haired "hippies" (as they called themselves) demonstrated for nearly two hours in support of the former Alabama governor.

Carrying placards reading "Turn on with Wallace," "Keep America Beautiful, get a haircut!" "Sock it to us, - George!" "America, Love it or Leave it!" "Hippies for Wallace," and shouting slogans like "Law and Order Now!" and "We're for Po-leece Power," the group was curiously received.

Some of the crowd of 10,000 who turned out to hear Wallace were able to perceive the tongues in the hippies' cheeks. But many were unable to cope with the reversal of stereotype.

After watching the hippies parade for several minutes, one elderly woman asked uncertainly, "They ARE hippies, aren't they?"

Another said, "If someone like that is for Wallace, I don't know if I'm supporting the right man or not."

Even Wallace was somewhat bewildered by the group when they gained his attention during his oratory. It was a typical Wallace speech, complete with catch-phrases, Wallace witticisms and emotional appeals to the working man.

As the atmosphere grew tense, as the fervor spread in the crowd, the hippies came through to lighten the mood. They started to chant: "Sock it to 'em George, sock it to 'em George."

Wallace, thinking the shouts came from one of the usual groups of adversaries who attend his speeches, pulled out several patented retorts from his repertoire: "All right, you're not goin' to get promoted to the second grade...you people don't know how many votes you get me each time you..."

Then, pointing toward the group which was sitting high in the balcony he said, "You need a haircut," though he was too far away to see how correct he was. The hippie group began chanting even louder -- "We want Wallace."

Wallace hesitated, took a step backwards, approached the mike again and said, "Oh, I think they're for us up there," which brought wild applause from the group. The little man with the stock-backed hair had been goofed on and didn't know it.

Later at the airport, when asked about the hippies he said: "If they're for me, I'd be glad to have them."

REP. SHAPIRO

"I am a candidate for Congress because I believe that the only way we can really change America is to build a lasting movement for radical social change.

"In America today we find U. S. domination of Vietnam placed above the lives of American and Vietnamese youth, 'labor-management harmony' placed above decent wages and working conditions, ghetto peace above racial equality, anti-communism above freedom, employers' advantage above women's rights, and missile systems above eradicating poverty. I see this apparent madness of our national priorities as the logical outcome of existing institutions. To change those priorities we must change these institutions.

"It is clear that our country is in a deep crisis. The two 'major' parties offer the same programs to solve the crisis which brought us into it -- with subtle differences in style and tactics. The growing movement in support of George Wallace, or of 'law and order,' is a tragic response to the same problems and the same powerlessness of the people that we in the Peace and Freedom Party recognize. But the program of the right wing cannot remove the frustration and bitterness in the lives of the American people.

"I am a candidate for Congress though I believe that electoral activity alone cannot bring real peace, cannot guarantee real freedom. But our Peace and Freedom campaigns, here and across the nation, will begin to talk to the American people, and, we hope, begin to bring them into a growing radical movement. The people who join us will shape that movement with us."

Judith Shapiro, an assistant professor of economics at the U.W. (This is for identification only--clearly her views don't represent those of the University.), is the Peace and Freedom Party candidate for Congress in the First District (roughly Seattle north of East Thomas and East Roy, plus Mercer and Bainbridge Islands). Judith who will be 25 this month, came to Seattle in 1966, was part of the Free University Steering Committee in its first year, was in on the beginning of HELIX, and of Draft Resistance-Seattle, has been and is active in SDS, serving as its faculty advisor too, as well as advisor for about five or six other campus groups.

NO ALTERNATIVE

Judith came to Seattle from New York, by way of Chicago and London. She started out, like many future New Leftists her age, in the civil rights and "ban the bomb" movements. She says that as she worked and read, she came to realize that war and racism were not just accidental products of an otherwise attractive society, but bound up with clearly oppressive institutions. She feels that there is just NO alternative to building a radical movement--that liberalism cannot really cure America's ills, end alienation and repression, end war, no matter how principled and sincere the liberals are. And, she adds, "many politicians who talk to liberals are not sincere--the war in Vietnam, the Cold War, are liberals' wars," "for example, "In addition, liberalism tries to change things from the top down, by reforming with the advice of supposedly enlightened elites, like university professors. Real change which will make America liveable must come from the people."

DO YOUR OWN THING?

We asked Judith whether she thought the Peace and Freedom Party might end up just as bureaucratic and anti-people as the two major parties. She said she thought however appealing "doing your own thing" might seem, that the slogan was being used in a reactionary fashion, urging young people in particular to remain disunited. "Freeing your mind may be necessary to real freedom, but you can't be free in an unfree society," she stated firmly. "It is absurd to state that no one can bring you down if you are spiritually free--the power structure has many tools to do that." She pointed out that she was not surprised that "Revolution" was played at the Humphrey rally, and noted that it was followed by the DOORS; "People everywhere want to be free..." "That song may seem anti-Humphrey, but remember that it contains the line 'It's clear that it has to be done individually. The ultimate stroke of course is the use of 'Do your own thing' to sell shoes (Thom McAnn). Still, we recognize the need not to take ourselves too seriously now-if only to remain sane."

IRRESPONSIBILITY?

The Peace and Freedom Party has received a lot of publicity for its demonstrations at the Humphrey rally Saturday night, and has even been attacked publicly by Shirley Siegel, co-chairman of the New Party, for tending to discredit the "Responsible Opposition." Judith had a few things to say about this, "First let us note that Free Speech is NOT at issue here. We are totally behind real free speech, of course. We did not keep the opposition from speaking, we simply made our presence felt." As Cal Winslow, the vice-presidential candidate pointed out on KOMO, we want to make it clear that the war in Vietnam cannot be made to disappear until November 6th, that we will not forget Chicago, that we know that 'law and order' is a code message for racism. We cannot take Humphrey's defense of 'democratic dialogue' seriously, when there has been no possibility of dialogue on important issues. The people are really quite powerless, and this powerlessness is covered up with cries for "responsibility" which seems to mean any action which has no effect. It is because we are responsible that we must protest. It is absurd to talk about being rude to anyone responsible for the killing of Americans and Vietnamese in Vietnam, responsible for the beating of young people, delegates, and the press in Chicago, responsible for the conditions in our urban ghettos."

"Let me emphasize, incidentally, that it is not the police who are the originators of the repression at home. They are only guilty of 'doing their job.' The police are only the tools of the mild-mannered and not so mild-mannered politicians who are their bosses. Interestingly enough, Eldridge Cleaver, our presidential candidate, pointed this out in Soul on Ice. It is not that the police are innocent of 'brutality' but simply that they are not the real enemy."

CAMPAIGN WORKERS WANTED

Judith urged everyone who wants to help on her campaign or learn more about the Peace and Freedom Party, to call her "campaign headquarters" at the Free U, ME 2-2299. Everyone is welcome, and you don't have to commit yourself in order to drop by, or come to meetings. She is also happy to speak to groups, and would prefer an informal setting, where you shoot questions, to one where she gives a sales pitch. "We are," she says, "out to win supporters, not votes."

From Up Front

S. F. and Berkley no longer a scene of love and sharing. Police, junk, violence, establishment, commercialism, police, police, police.... 20 cops on one block between Dwight and Hastings on Telegraph Friday night... paths of community action cut off, police surround, resist, police, police.

Seattle... Have we a choice? Can we stop this police state, the death of our ideals as a separate community. The movement still grows even without any solid leadership, growing also are the psychedelic dressed straits with long hair who RISK nothing, who will buy any package, who will drop acid and write evil scripts, the USERS will be the Death of all we love.....

GI COFFEE HOUSE

"Hey GI, you want coffee, music, play chess, a place to go and maybe a little, you know baby, you been around...talking?"

The Shelter Half, a coffee house for GIs (and everyone else) is opening in Tacoma this Friday at 6437 South Tacoma Way. Several similar coffee houses have been set up around the country, including the UFO in Columbia, South Carolina. When I spoke to Deborah Rossman (who had been in on the UFO and was in Tacoma temporarily to help with setting up the Shelter Half) on the phone, she said the coffee house was intended as "just a groovy place where people could sit and talk." "And although she hoped that some of the soldiers might re-evaluate their view of why-they-were-where-they-were-at, it is not intended to be an indoctrination center, but just a place with open book shelves where people can sit and relax.

So far there has been no serious attempt to interfere on the part of the Army or government. In South Carolina the UFO was placed off limits for a week, but this opens the Army to a suit unless cause is shown.

There is a good chance that an auditorium will be made available, and they already have a record sound system, though they can use records (books, newspapers, original art for the walls and money until they become self-supporting).

With War Clouds Looming on Every Horizon Let us STOP and THINK. THINK AMERICAN-And keep our interest, money, and our boys out of Europe.

-Phil Van Soelen

Over the past few years alternative high school presses have sprung up and disappeared. This year there is further development in this trend. There is a national news service specifically for these papers coming out of New York City. In Seattle, THE VOICE has started. The first issue had a circulation of 5,000 in 24 schools throughout the area. Darol Streib of Roosevelt and Virginia Hadley of Hale are production managers but THERE ARE people writing from many schools. They have great plans for the future. The paper is now monthly and they hope to go weekly when the circulation reaches 10,000. Whatever money they make will be spent to open up an office, buy typewriters, and eventually buy their own press. Of course to realize these goals takes a tremendous amount of labor. The press time alone is 30 hours DUE TO the slow press they have. If you would like to help, call Darol at LA 4-5961 or Virginia at EM 3-0911.

We seem to be a group of idealistic high school students who are trying to put out a Free Press, ONE PERSON can communicate his ideas to thousands. Whether that person is black, white, yellow or brown, whether he lives in a $28,000 house or a $60 per month rented shack, whether he is a capitalist, socialist or communist, whether he is conservative, moderate or liberal, whether he is a radical, rebel or reactionary, whether he is a Democrat, Republican or anarchist, whether he is hippy or straight, hawk or dove, whether he is a high school drop-out or an honors student, WE BELIEVE THAT HIS IDEAS AND OPINIONS ARE OF THE GREATEST VALUE, AND THAT IT IS UTMOST IMPORTANCE THAT THOSE IDEAS AND OPINIONS BE COMMUNICATED TO HIS FELLOW HUMAN BEINGS.

We have created THE VOICE for this purpose - The Staff.

THE VOICE

AMERICA

(Editor's Note: a warning: this reviewer directed AMERICA HURRAH last winter, and claims he is the last person to review the Ensemble's production objectively. In the spirit of subjectivity and irresponsible criticism, Helix publishes the following review.)

AMERICA HURRAH is not a terribly good play, but it is the right play at the right time. In INTERVIEW, the first of three sketches, four plastic-masked interrogators examine the qualifications for existence of four applicants; then, each of the eight characters in turn discovers that hell is other people. In TV, three sexually entangled people have their lives transformed and finally taken over by the ghostly grey people from the screen. In MOTEL, two huge vaguely pornographic dolls move into and destroy a motel-room, a room which is also a human soul.

None of the ideas or technical devices in the play are new or even fresh; it succeeds, if it does succeed, by the degree to which the actors fill the sketched-in conventional frames with their own feelings. To the extent that Van Itallie's play can stand on it's own, the Ensemble's performance is adequate; where the text must be supplemented by the director and actors it is a failure.

The staging of the original off-off-Broadway production by Joseph Chaiken and Jacques Levy is followed slavishly. But this staging was valid for the original actors and directors; when it is aped without feeling, the result resembles a Mozart sonata played by a player piano, without the technical accomplishment. In the occasional original solutions of the play's problems, life suddenly enters. In particular, Eric Alexander, playing a defeated housepainter, lives his confusions and unhappiness vividly enough to be physically painful. Bill Woolf's adventurous single stage setting works for all three plays.

In Interview, the marionette quality of imitation without understanding does little harm. It was, I believe, by far the best received by first-time viewers. TV is a different proposition entirely. The device of the real world and the TV world simultaneously existing on stage creates formidable technical problems, but also makes it even more important for the director to decide just what it is he is trying to communicate. At the Ensemble the actors are so preoccupied just with getting through the piece, like a child with the Minute Waltz, that all sense of theme is lost and the tension is that of wondering when the whole thing will fall apart.

Motel, the most celebrated of the plays, fails entirely at the Ensemble, for many reasons. The theatre itself is the wrong shape. The dolls are half-hearted compounds of paper-mache and flesh-colored tights (the male doll even as he beats his chest in rut, constantly adjusted his slipping drawers into a more modest position). The music ("Fire" by Arthur Brown) is ill-chosen, the words of the motel-keeper are almost entirely incomprehensible, etc. etc. The fault, I repeat, is not basically in execution; it is the attempt to repeat someone else's vision. The director who can recapture another director's intention is rarer than the one who builds, however modestly, on his own foundations: the play and his understanding of it.

All the political flatus you should need is spread across the accompanying pages. It says some important things I guess but it does not begin to say what I want to say - which is perhaps inevitable.

I had hoped that this candidacy business would not weigh me down but it has. It's too big and complex a game to play without becoming totally involved and hung up. The office itself is of course irrelevant. The issues are not.

It is very painful to admit that you really have none of the answers. Worse is to realize that no one has the answers. Perhaps there are no answers. Perhaps politics is one gigantic game of self delusion, and history, only a common myth and the future, a mass hallucination.

Even so it makes no real difference to how we act. As a human being I have a certain weakness for myths and a tendency to dream and then to confuse them with reality.

Reality. A dream dreamt en masse. A collective dream arrived at through consensus, ordained unanimously.

Every age has had its share of revolutionaries and misfits whose dreams were out of time with the rhythm. Not every age has undergone revolution.

But at other times a strange affinity has evolved between the misfit and the dreams of his community. And the sleeping society has become disturbed and restless in its slumber. The dream has become a nightmare in which society cowers and shudders. It opens its eyes wide in fear and doubt and the nightmare passes. Then, always it slips back into a new dream.

Our social reality is as real as any nightmare.

War, misery, despair, the snarl of tyrants, real and aspiring, the weeping of starving children and frightened men and beneath it all the quickening pulse of the machinery of death - these are the midnight forms that prowl our dream. Gradually they grow and swell eclipsing beauty and peace and love. And we become what we dream, hypnotized the rhythm of chaos, consumed by our own darkened image.

Late on fall nights when walking alone through campus I have felt a strange wind well up around me. And the lights from buildings and fixtures along the path seem to fade and recede as though something had threatened them and they had shrunk back in fear of being blotted out. Then the scattered dead of gutters come to life and dance like frenzied puppets, only to be once again discarded.

The wind surrounds, engulfs me and I become like a tattered leaf in its grip. My brain fills with the sound of ageless echoes, echoes both ancient and causeless.

Then it passes and I relax my pace. Lampposts once again extend their rays and reblossom. The night shakes off its fear and rolls gently onto its side and sighs.

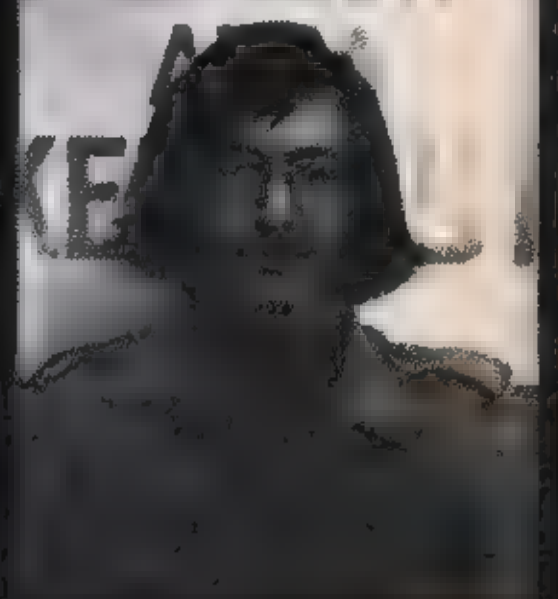

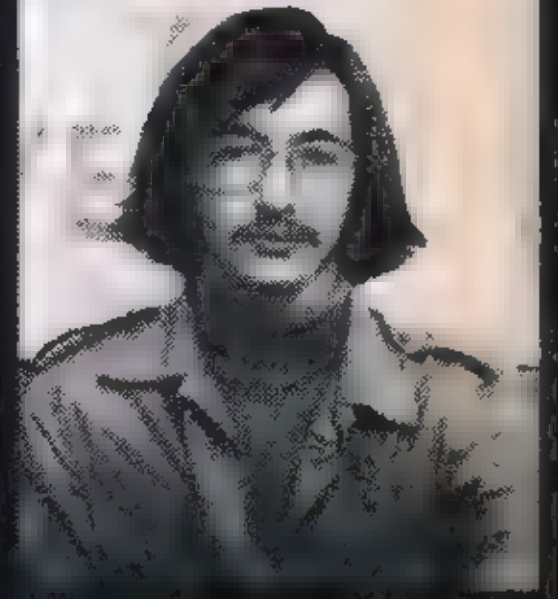

Society is moaning in its sleep.

Walt Crowley is a member of the generation that everyone is worried about. He, too, is more than a little concerned. That is why he is the Peace and Freedom Candidate for State Representative from District 32-A.

21 Years old, Walt Crowley is a student of political science at the University of Washington, an associate editor of Seattle's underground newspaper, the Helix, and a nationally recognized artist as well as a vocal member of the community in which he lives.

His purpose in running is not to initiate a political career, which would inevitably compromise his own individual principles, but rather to draw attention to issues confronting both the community and the society in which he lives. This is also the mission of the Peace and Freedom Party.

The time for apathy and non-involvement, if it ever truly existed, has certainly passed. The survival of American society and mankind as a whole is clearly in jeopardy. Only by engaging the entire populace at the local level in meaningful debate can the growing chaos in our society be confronted. This is why Walt Crowley is running.

I am frightened when I contemplate the all too possible future awaiting America and the world. Very frightened.

I am disillusioned and angered when I look around me at a society which seems madly devouring itself.

America is the most affluent society in history, yet millions of its citizens suffer the degradation of poverty and the gnawing pain of malnutrition and starvation.

America is the bastion of democracy, yet dissent is deemed traitorous and protestors are killed and beaten by the Police.

America is the Great Melting Pot, yet cultural and racial minorities are ruthlessly oppressed and denied their "inalienable rights" as human beings.

America is the champion of world peace, yet it doesn't hesitate in forcing its own will on other peoples either through political and economic intrigue or overt military intervention.

America is the land of opportunity yet millions cannot find work.

America is the land of pioneers and individuals and bright futures yet millions lead meaningless lives and die unfulfilled; her youth turn their back on America in confusion and disgust and her elderly are discarded and left to rot in obsolence. And the vast majority stare at their television, holding their favorite drug in one hand and a rifle in the other.

America is not what she thinks she is. America is schizophrenic. America is in trouble.

America is suffering the trauma of a society which has out grown its institutions, political and economic. Riots, wars, poverty etc. are not the problems, they are the symptoms of a deeper illness.

The exploitation of foreign peoples, the oppression of those at home, the alienation of vast segments of the population and the disenfranchisement of the people from the political and economic processes which control them-These are not accidental phenomena. They are the inevitable products of obsolete institutions.

Social systems, governments and industries, etc., are self aware in an almost organic way. Their prime concern is their own self preservation. They also possess only a limited flexibility. When social conditions change, partly as a result of the operation of these institutions, these same systems cannot adapt without becoming something radically different. Radical change is tantamount to death for institutions.

As they approach extinction, institutions become reactionary and ruthless. They become a burden on the society as a whole.

It is the responsibility of the people to replace institutions which become irrelevant or destructive to society with new institutions. The process is called revolution and you can read all about it in the Declaration of Independence.

Americas system of political and economic interrelationships must be replaced with new approaches if we are to survive as a society worth living in.

Contrasted with the reality of Today's America, 1984 and Brave New World seem no longer the fantasies of pessimistic authors. They are the very credible future facing us and our children if radical changes are not initiated immediately.

Yes I'm scared about the future. If you aren't you should be.

If you are already concerned then join with the Peace and Freedom Party in meaningful action.

I do not have all the answers to the situation we now confront, not even most, maybe none. That is for you to decide. No single man or party can solve the problems which threaten America. If a workable blueprint for the future is to be developed, it must be evolved by all of the people, by you and I together.

We must act now. New institutions are the first priority. Things that must be acted upon immediately include these points:

Cultural Autonomy-The word "minority" implies inferiority. America contains many cultures which, like individuals, have the right to be themselves, the right to be free. Let these cultures and races control their own destinies, specifically black control of black communities.

End Imperialism-America must not retreat from participation in the world community but she must dismantle her Empire: an empire supported by money from American corporations and government and the blood of American troops and innocent people-your money and your blood.

Rational Control of Resources-Man cannot survive in a poisoned and depleted environment, he must control his natural, as well as his social ecology.

Democratic control of the productive forces in this society-If we don't control them they will control us.

The right to live-needs no explanation or justification.

In this district

Students and Faculty control of the University.

Rapid Transit-Freeways are not an answer to the problem of getting from point A to point B.

Living Space-Communities are composed of people and people have to live somewhere. Available land is being gobbled up by office buildings which attract cars for which parking does not exist. Available housing is simply not available. Neither is space for new housing.

Business-This district is unique in the diversity of its residents. Business should cater to the needs of these people. Small business and shops should be encouraged.

Drugs-Marijuana must be legalized, it's less addictive than nicotine and less harmful than alcohol. The hard drugs must be controlled and their users treated, not imprisoned. Drug use is symptomatic not so much of personal weakness but of social weakness.

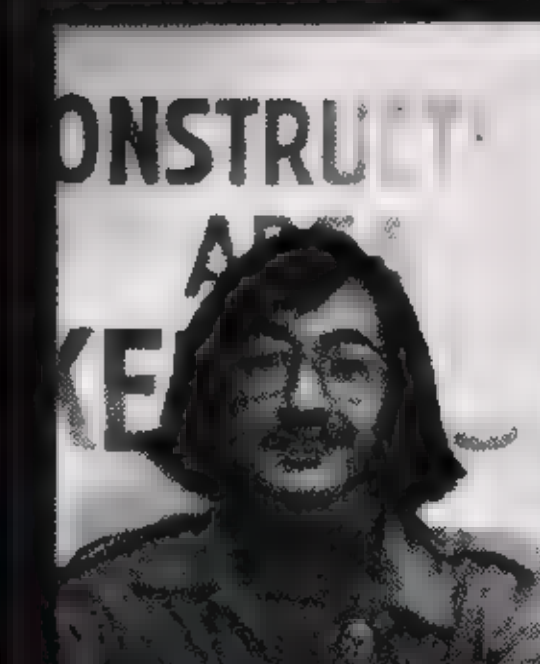

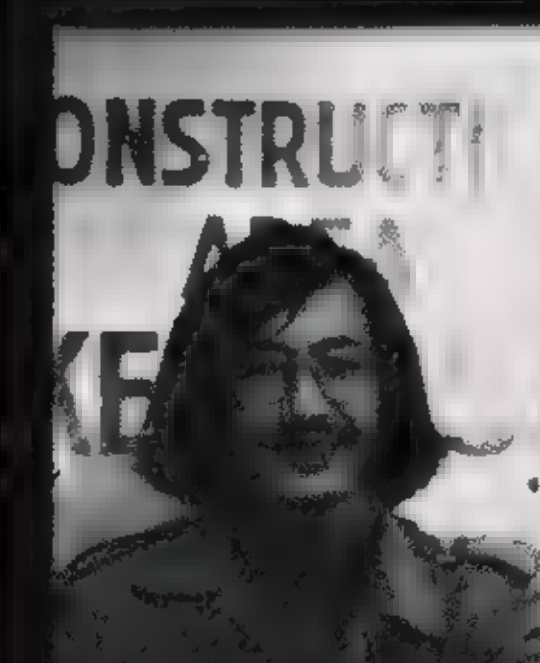

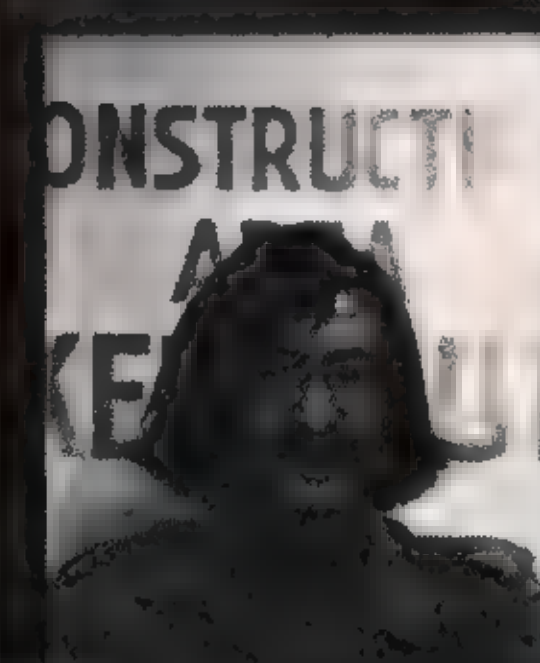

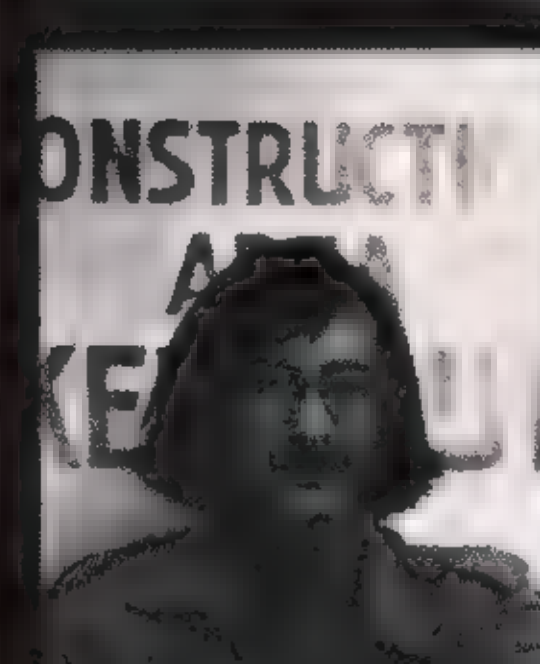

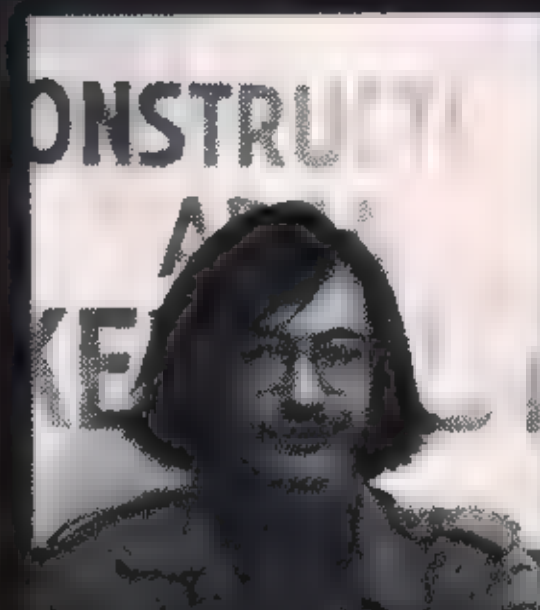

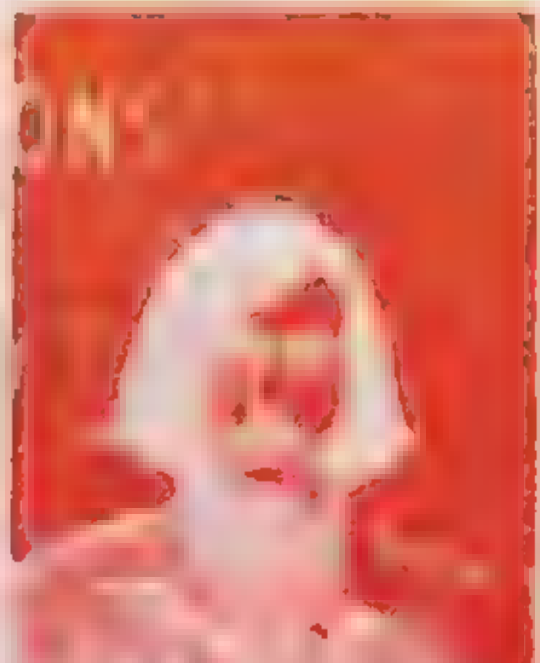

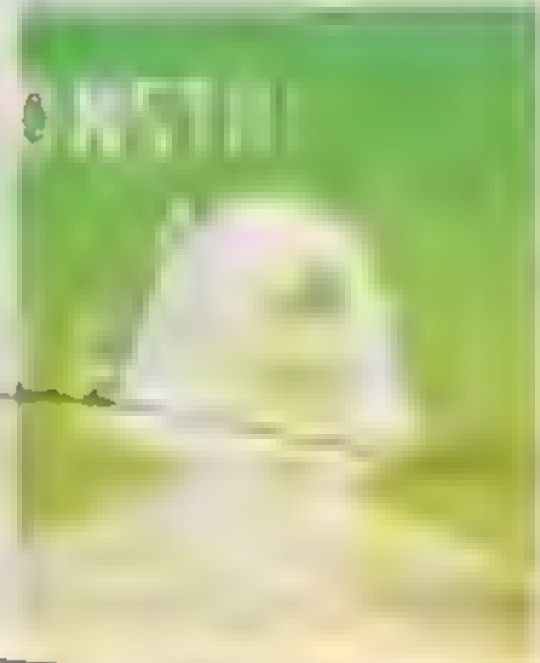

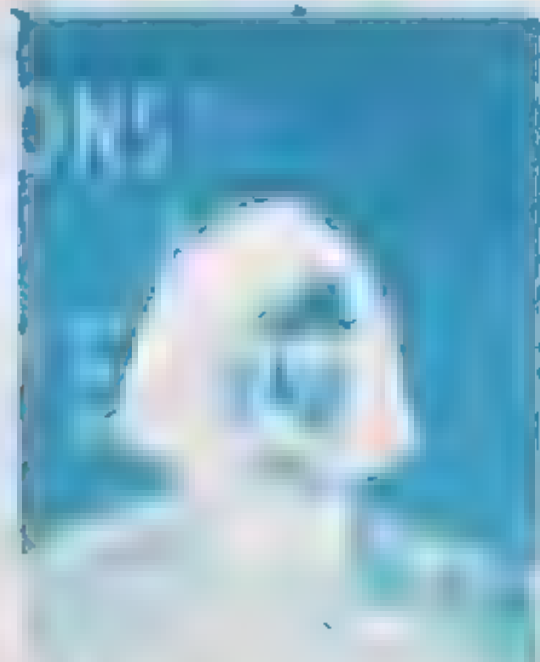

The Aves-The "hippies" or whatever are human beings not stereotypes, they have the same rights as anyone else. They are not criminals, rather they are victims of an absurd society.

This is your community, your society. If it becomes inhospitable to human life, alien and destructive, it will be your fault.

If it is reconstituted and becomes a better place to live in for you and your children it will be your victory.

Either way it is your life, your future, your responsibility.

It is also your vote.

Seattle Drug Crisis Frightens Officials

(Seattle has a growing drug-abuse problem. Many juveniles are involved. Stanton H. Patty, Times staff reporter, has spent the past several weeks investigating the drug scene here. Patty worked closely with law-enforcement agencies, observing their undercover methods and witnessing interrogations and raids. He interviewed dozens of persons, from addicts to physicians. Here is his first report.)

By STANTON H. PATTY

A grim war is being fought in the streets of Seattle.

You don't hear much about it — but it might be reaching into your family at this moment.

This is drug abuse. From marijuana to heroin, with all sorts of lethal pills and capsules in between.

The drug scene is big here, and swelling. Seattle and its suburbs rank high among the nation's metropolitan areas with drug-abuse problems. An increasing number of young persons are being caught in the web. Many officials are worried, even frightened, about the trends.

IT IS PART OF the same scene that has been erupting on turbulent university campuses, in homes torn with dissension, in violent crime.

It is filth.

"Tell it like it is..."

I heard this same appeal from police officers, addicts too far gone to help themselves and cocky kids who see nothing wrong in what they are doing.

It is hell. MORE NEXT ISSUE

"You Are What You Eat" is what you hear....

You see!

It's important!

Rosko, Tiny Tim, The Electric Flag, Super Spade, Peter Yarrow, Paul Butterfield, John Simon and others make this the most important movie sound track ever recorded.

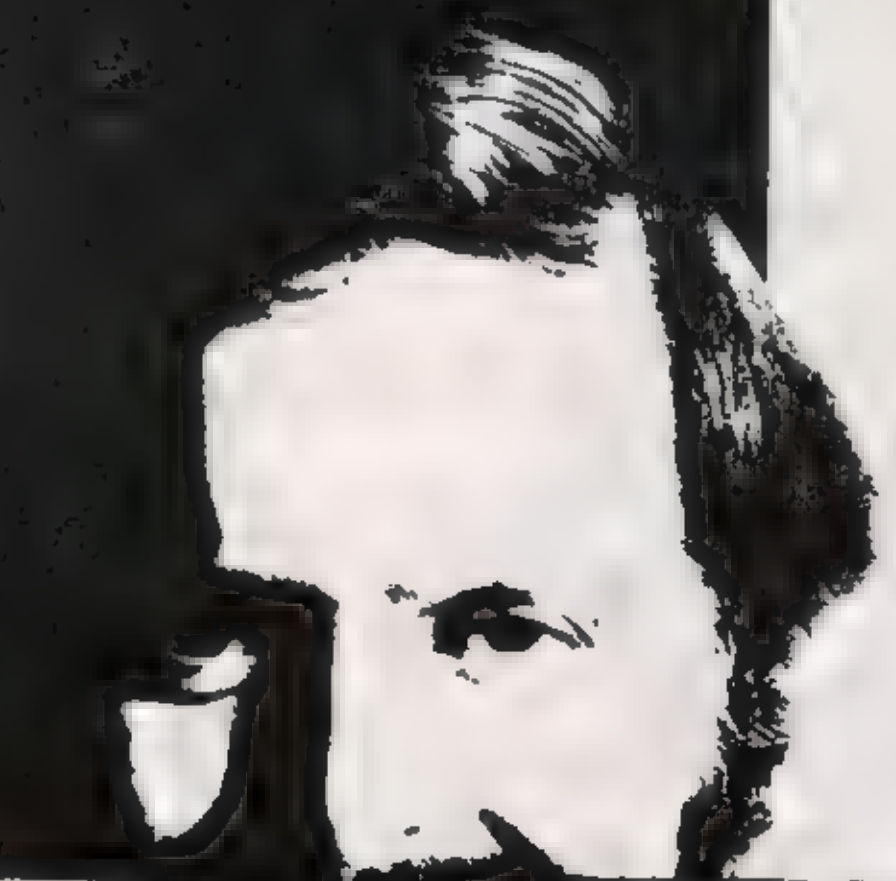

"You Are What You Eat" has no relationship to anything which preceded it in sound or the cinema. To label it is meaningless. To explain, unnecessary.

The album is just a place to go. It is what it portrays: the moment of an experience. Performed by some great super-stars. They're free from our cultural clichés of experience, and ready to let new realities emerge.

So, get close with an out-of-sight movie sound track featuring today's underground children. "You Are What You Eat" is what you want... you see!

28 CASE HISTORIES are used to give insight to, and portray the various areas of, FELLATIO AS A STUDY OF NORMAL AND ABNORMAL SEXUAL BEHAVIOR!! Included are explicit discussions of: Marital Problems Caused and/or Solved By Oral Sex; Teen-Aged Girls Submitting To Fellatio To Preserve Their Virginity; Kidnapped Girls Forced to Perform Fellatio; Teachers Forcing Oral Sex on Students in Exchange For Better Grades; Women Attaining Climax While Fellating Men; Women Who Prefer Oral Sex; Multiple Fellatio; Incestuous Fellatio, and much, much more!!

Bestiality

ESOTERIA $5.00

BESTIALITY

Here is the latest study of one of mankind's oldest sexual practices, bestiality — the use of animals as sex partners. Many legends still encountered have bestiality as their basis. These include Leda and the Swan, Europa and the Bull, the Unicorn (who favored female virgins) as well as the sirens who tempted Ulysses. Dr. Caldwell treats the subject from a sympathetic standpoint, conceding that such acts take place far more frequently than is generally realized. This includes sexual acts on the part of both men and women.

You will learn of the various animals used, the favorites, how such acts are accomplished by both men and women, what types of people indulge in bestiality and why, the reactions of both humans and animals, the times and places where bestiality were legal and many other interesting facts.

In the section entitled Case History Reports, you will read a series of personal confessions from both men and women who have practiced sex acts with animals. $10.00 Adults Only

HUSBAND and WIFE SWAPPING

Gateway to Perversion?

by R. J. Hagerman

Now! One shocking new book dares to go beyond the realm of ordinary sex acts? You'll follow today's materswapping "swingers" from their initiation into swapping through to the most depraved realms of exotic sexual experimentation! Dozens of first-person Case Histories erotically catalogue all the perverted acts the "swingers" perform in their search for newer and wilder sex thrills! For example: Read about the couple who freely admit to a "particular interest in training wife in animal relationships...!" Or the wife who confesses: "I like to put my hands on "big" men...!" One husband tells his wife: "I think I'd like to watch you and Marty together..." and is pleased when she agrees! A wife describes a swinging sex party where her friend, Lorraine, "didn't seem to mind... that the head between her thighs belonged to my husband..." A man likes sex with his wife and her lesbian friend: "I stripped myself naked and joined in on the activities... Neither of the girls seemed to mind..." A bisexual wife is proud that she can "climax easily... I mean like when I'm going down on a fellow..." These people and dozen more brazenly describe everything that happens during their nights of untrammelled group sex! Nothing is held back in chapters such as: THE COUPLE NEXT DOOR, THE SEX CLUB, THE FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS, PERVERSIONS AND SWAPPING; THE ORGY; STRANGE DESIRES; THE LESBIAN; THE HOMOSEXUAL; PAIN AND PLEASURE; THE PROFESSIONAL LOVERS; THE 1D SWAP many more! Don't miss this all new, totally revealing account of what happens when today's "swingers" gather to tryout the newest, wildest, and most inventive sex k k k anywhere!

Adults Only $7.50

ALL the FACTS about Fellatio, Cunnilingus, Anilingus, etc.

ORAL LOVE

by R. J. Hagerman

Actual Case Histories, reveal exactly what couples do during mouth-genital sexual acts!! How they do it, what they feel, why they perform oral-sex acts!! These Case Histories include Men and Women, Men and Men, and Women and Women!! Fascinating portions of this book include: Advantages of Oral Love; Oral Love & Incest; Sex-Driven Orality; Soixante-Neuf or "69"; Techniques of Oral Love; The Mouth of the Male Homosexual; The Mouth of the Lesbian; Anilingus; Oral Love — To Do or Not To Do!! In addition — special sections detail examples of Oral Love in erotic literature, reproducing complete, unexpurgated portions of "MY SECRET LIFE," "THE LASCIVIOUS HYPOCRITE," "PHILOSOPHIES OF THE BEDROOM," and more! At last, a book which bares to the world, the unvarnished truth about Oral Love and Lovemaking! $7.50 Adults Only

Lloyd Cooney
c/o KIRO TV
Seattle, Washington
Dear Mr. Cooney:

Letters

Your editorial this morning on civil disobedience and the consequences one must pay when he disregards the law was enthusiastically received in our family.

One must surely realize the price when one expresses his views and demonstrates against the legal and orderly law of the land.

German Jews demonstrated against the legal law of their country. They broke the law by being Jews and should have been prepared to accept the consequences. They finally did.

Young and militant Hungarians were not satisfied with the peaceful and orderly way their country was run by its leaders. They demonstrated. They broke the law of the land. They got what they deserved.

The Czechs, inspired by a touch of freedom, got carried away and voiced their opinion against existing conditions. They demonstrated and they got what they expected. For you and I know that you can't break the law and get away with it. They knew it and got what they deserved.

The young bearded hippies and militant young girls with long hair, armed with mini skirts and posies knew they should not litter the streets of Chicago, for there is a definite city ordinance in the City of Chicago against littering the streets. They broke the law and got what they deserved.

I know what I am talking about, Mr. Cooney, for now I am a rehabilitated law breaker. I was taught that it is wrong to break the law in Dachau.

Abraham Rosenberg.

DRS BENEFIT

Dear McCarthy Supporter:

We didn't win the nomination in Chicago and there is little hope of an early peace. All of us have worked hard for peace, both before and during the campaign; and we shall continue to work toward the goal in the future. But I am particularly concerned about the nearly 1,000 students who went to Oregon to canvas for McCarthy and succeeded in showing that the American people want peace; and, of course the many more students who couldn't go because of final exams and other reasons, but have seen that the nation wanted McCarthy and that the politicians wouldn't give him to us. Many of them will now be called on to serve in this unjust, immoral war which they and most of the nation have rejected. Should they go off and kill Vietnamese? I certainly could not ask them to betray their consciences in such a manner. Therefore I ask you to help them by giving support to Draft Resistance.

Draft Resistance needs money-money for legal aid, money for printed material, money for educational materials for students who have chosen to go to jail, money for projects (such as Veterans for GI Resistance, a teach-in at the University of Washington, and High School projects); and money for support of resisters and their families. Draft Resistance further needs to know that there are more people in the country who agree with them that it is a more patriotic act to try to improve your country than to blindly obey it. If you would like to talk with potential Draft Resisters and help them weigh the moral and practical problems, Draft Resistance would appreciate hearing from you. If you would like to hear more of what Draft Resistance is doing, ask to be put on their mailing list.

I fortunately have a draft exemption, but I have pledged my help, I hope that you will do the same.

Sincerely, MIKE FRIED.

CANCELED SUB

DEAR HELIX:

For crimes against the military I am, again, serving time in the U.S. Naval Brig here in Seattle. My present environment, being somewhere at an infinitely negative end of positive stimulus, forces me to write.

Your latest (and only) issue I received somehow eluded the censor's and our (myself as well as a few other good guys) eagerly awaited copy well lived up to our expectations, but happiness seldom lasts and for our protection (?) the "perverted" (?) and somehow pornographic (?) material was eventually confiscated. I cannot receive any more issues while I'm here (until Feb. 1969 maybe) so in view of these circumstances I wish to suspend my subscription until further notice.

Respectfully (REALLY!)

"Good Sailor Boyd"

TO THE EDITORS: complaint

Marc Krasnowsky's article on the Socialist Workers Party's September 17th Nominating convention, in the last issue of the Helix, contains a factual error that I would like to correct. Mr. Krasnowsky states that I will be running for State Representative from the 37th District, as he puts it, "against, among others, PFP's Walt Crowley." In actual fact I'm running against a Democrat and a Republican in District 44-B, and Walt Crowley is running in 32-A.

I also want to state that I believe that it would have been fairer on Krasnowsky's part to identify himself as a member of the Peace and Freedom party. I say this only because of the hostile tone of his article (for instance describing the SWP as an "allegedly Trotskyite group."). I think that had he so identified himself some of your readers would have gotten a better idea of why his article had such a sniping tone.

Whether or not you print this letter, I would like you to correct the factual mistake.

Thanks, Will Reissner

Repeat After Me

DES HIPPIES EN FRANCE

Certainly, we too are flower children. We are "children" because we do not want to be responsible individuals. In other words we are lazy people.

For clothing, we wear old coats or some cloth. The girls wear hair-falls, the boys too have long hair. We do not wash but like to be dirty. We do not wear shoes nor suits. We like junk jewelry, many cheap rings. No watches...we do not have money!!

But we are happy. We play the guitar. We don't use a washing machine, a dryer, an electric iron, nor a refrigerator. We do not have sheets, but sleep on the floor.

Flat tires...What's that? Who has a car?

People give us some fruit—we hope; some bananas, some apples, some raisins, some peaches and also some juice. Sometimes we munch on carrots, cucumbers, cauliflower, and corn. We beg for eggs, some cheese, some cookies and oh yes! Some wine. Naturally they give us poor wine. Oysters, mushrooms, are for the rich.

And we smoke "pot." We dream: "Please pass me some beef steak or some pork chops, some bacon or some turkey." But no one hands us these. What a catastrophe! We are very hungry.

In the meantime everyone hopes that we shall grow up.

That is all.

This (the above) was an assignment for Junior High School French students. They were to translate it into French.

It was written by Mrs. Blanche La Porte, a french and english teacher. Stewart Junior High School, Tacoma, Washington.

A few members of the class asked me to forward this to The Helix in hopes they would print it to show the Propaganda they were being taught. They aren't going for it at all.

Thanks, Sindi.

Milam For GREEN

Dear Friends at the Helix:

I have been instructed by Richard A. C. Greene to leave no one stone unturned or unstoned in his thanks for the many loyal workers who participated in his hard fought campaign for the Republican Nomination for Washington State Land Commissioner. Indeed, in a conference call we indulged in after his recent astounding victory, Green opined that he would have "demanded a recount" if he were not convinced that his many friends—devoted HELIX followers all—had indulged in a late-night button-holing campaign sans-pareil.

Green has asked me—as campaign manager for the Big Battle in November—to instruct his party regulars on some of the more interesting aspects of his next few weeks campaign. It is my happy duty to report to you that he, in his fall campaign headquarters on Oahu—has not forgotten the fearless and downtrodden who braved the smirks of the party regulars in his efforts to triumph. And he wants me to assure you that his campaign promise—40 acres and a mule—will apply to all the followers of the HELIX, wherever they may be.

One of the most exciting campaign promises is that of turning all of Sultan—site of the recent uplifting Labor Day festivities—into a state shrine. The whole will be cordoned off from future development, and a statue—in mud—will be erected to Police Chief Ramon for his insight and kindness in staying away from the Sky River Rock activities. The area will be seeded with—among other things—juniper trees, since it has been suggested that we could produce better and cheaper gin in Washington State and thus contribute to the demise of the split-level class through their own best poison? namely, Martinis.

Another plank envisioned by Greene is that of turning the University of Washington back to the Indians.

The University faculty and students will be transhipped—entire—to Sequim so that all can return to the divine and sedentary contemplation which is the true base of scholarly enlightenment. Of the present buildings and facilities, they will be turned over to those who most pressingly need the expensive and comprehensive layout. KRAB will take over Channel 9—so that viewers can actually SEE John Cunnick at work late on Sunday and Monday nights. The Helix will be awarded the printing facilities of THE DAILY and The University of Washington Press. The Free University will be given the various R.O.T.C. training halls, the HUB will be turned into a crash pad—complete with free food provided (courtesy the Washington State Land Commissioner's revolving fund) for all permanent and transient residents.

The stadium—now so misused by the block and tackle set—will be used for rock concerts with Country Joe and the Fish appointed "musicians in residence." Dr. John Spellman will be rehired at $50,000 a year as manager of the whole—and, as a bonus, will be awarded the Nuclear Reactor Building for any experiments in light and sound he may care to indulge in.

With Dr. Leary in charge of the Health-Sciences Department, Dylan, Chairman of the Music Department, and Alan Watts given the Atmospheric Sciences Department—I think you will agree that what is now a stodgy and tedious University complex will become one of the most exciting and forward looking in the country.

I should not forget—of course—our own Paul Dorpat, who along with the other campaign workers, made Greene's candidacy so successful and the future land commissioner has assured me that Dorpat will be given the whole administration building to use for any services he might see fit in his continuing work.

We thank you again for your contributions and efforts. And I shouldn't hesitate to remind you that the hardest battle lies ahead—on November 5th. For that is when Richard A. C. Greene meets head on the incumbent. It will be a hard-fought battle, a difficult battle. But we feel that with your continued support, it can be done so that Richard Greene can put into effect his valiant campaign promise:

"If elected Washington State Land Commissioner, I promise to go forth valiantly and commission the land..."

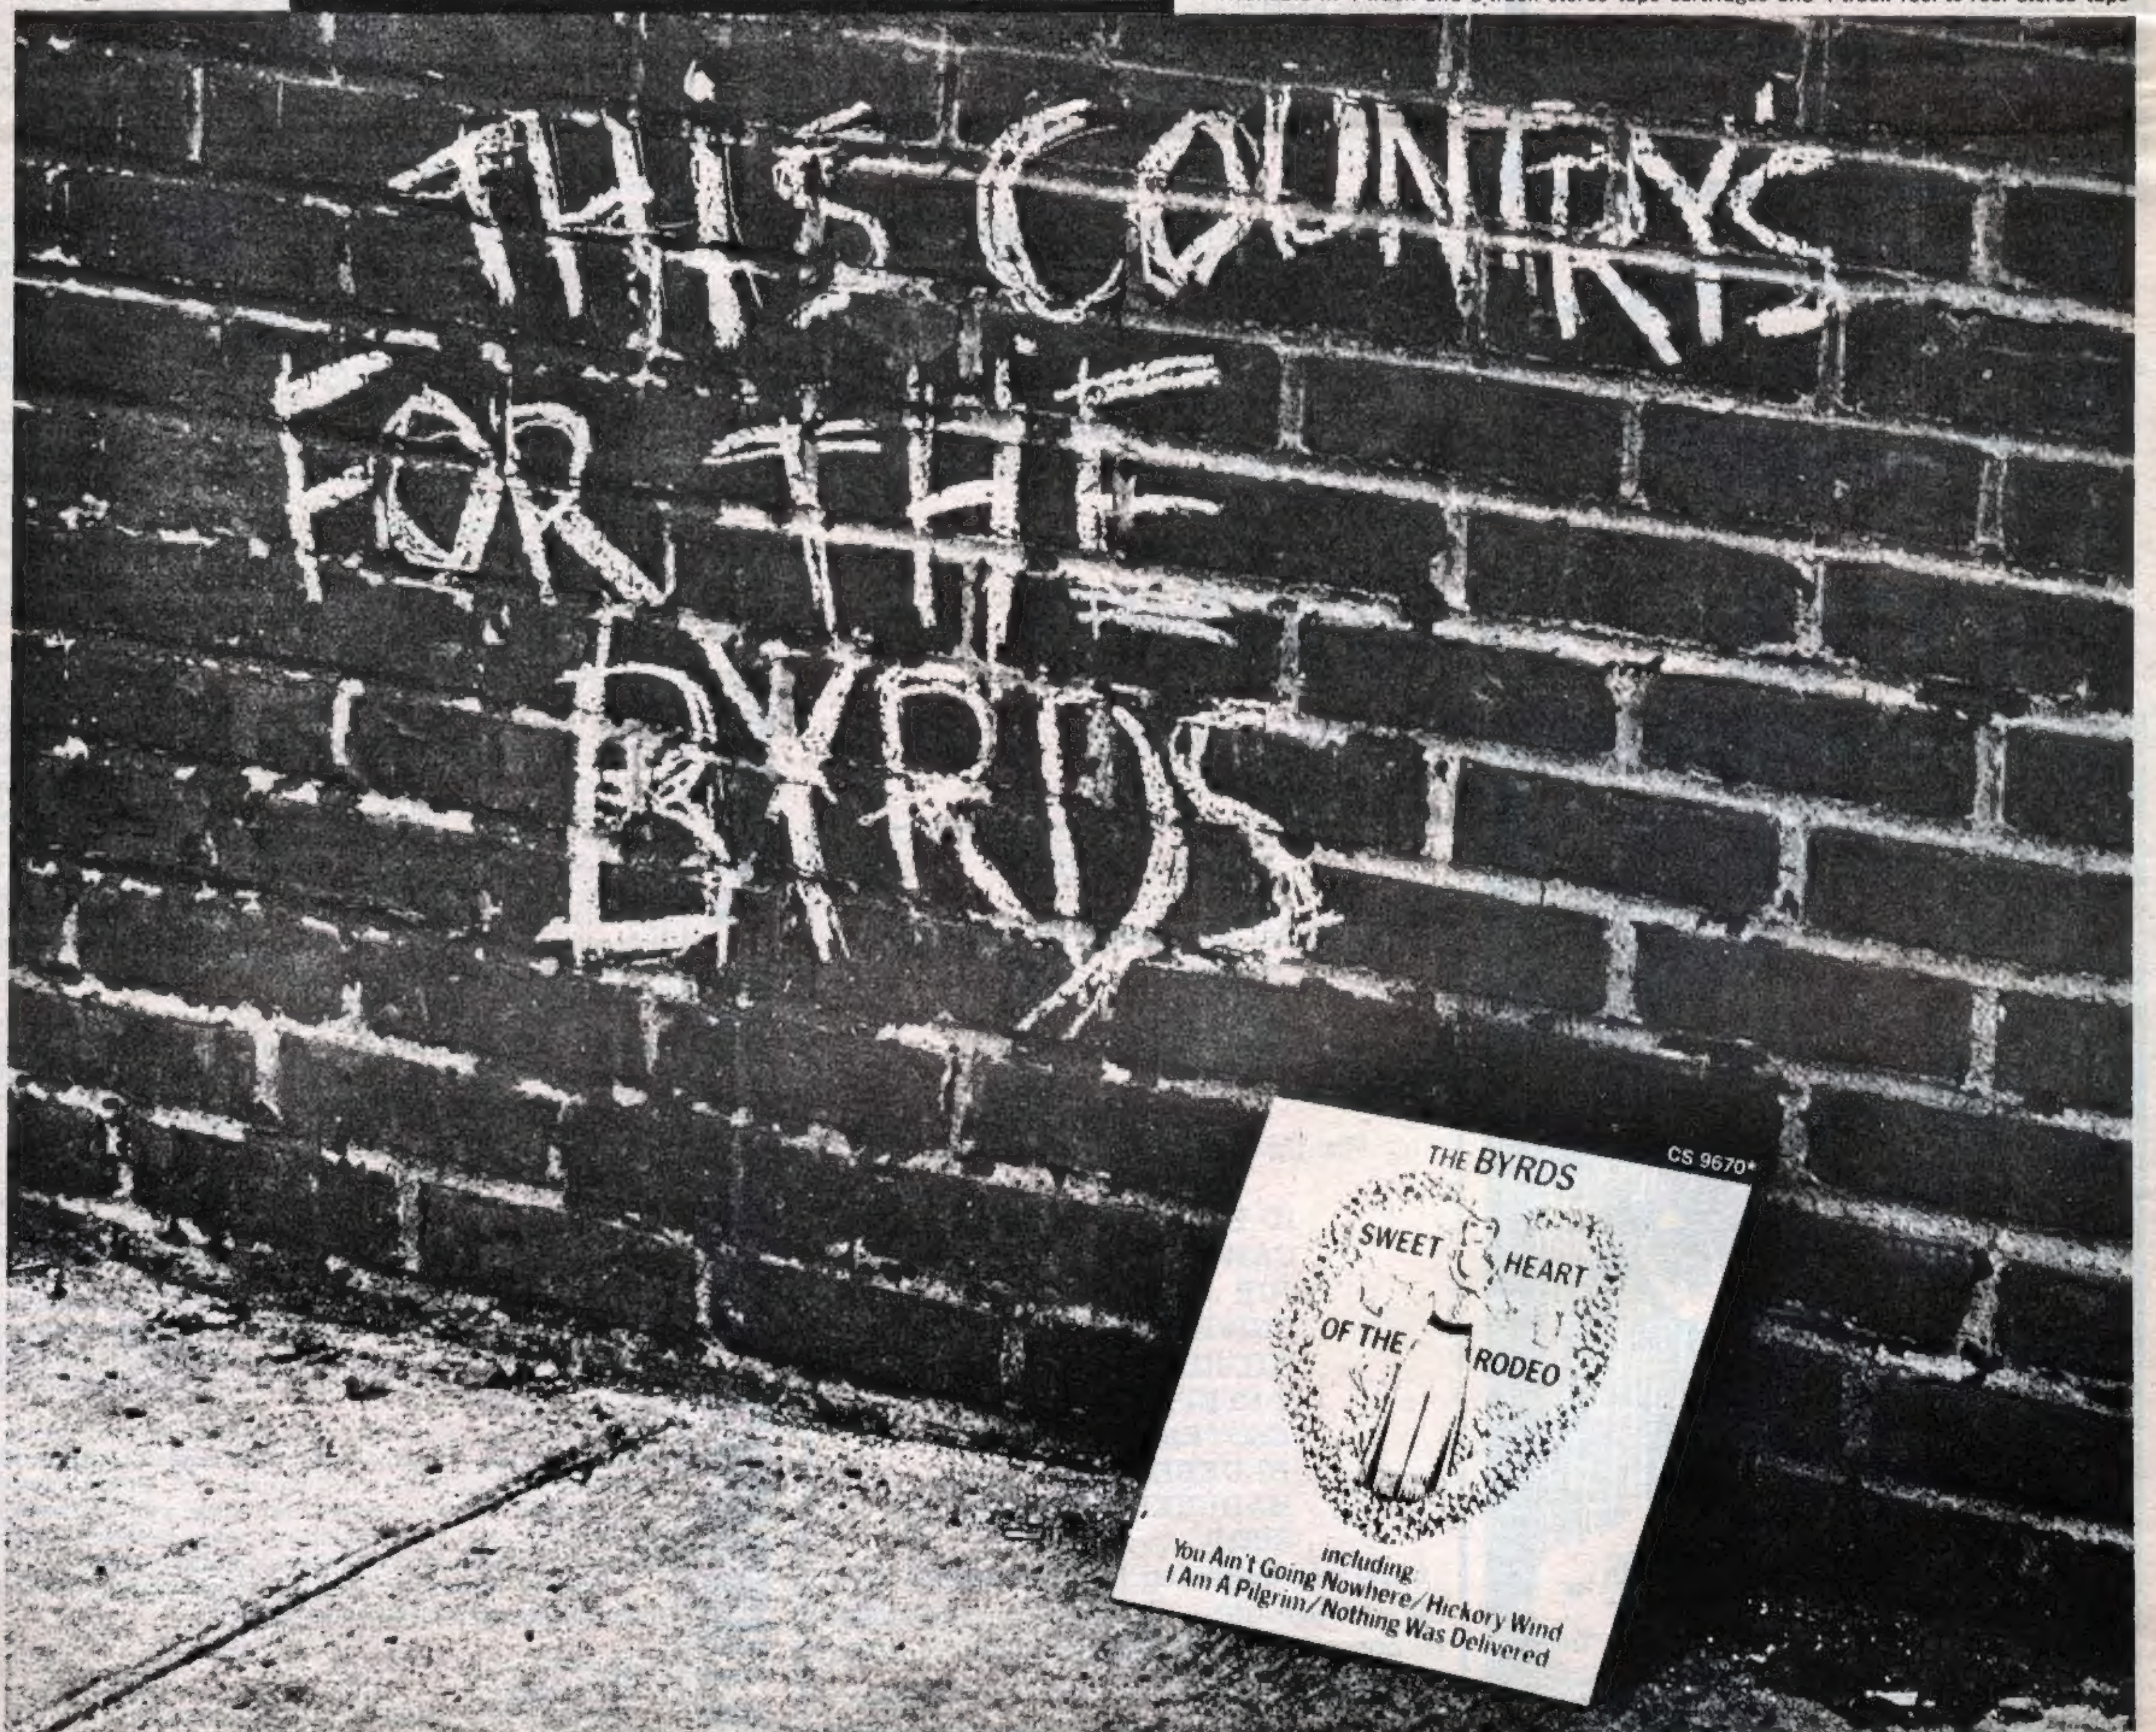

Sincerely,
L. W. Milam
